Elegant, delicate style, with apple skin and flowers. Incredibly lemony and zesty. A pretty brine backbone with hints of nuts.

Lovely clarity of oyster shell and iodene on the nose, deftly lifted by nutty almond, olive and elderflower hints. The palate is round, textured, soft and deep, with a beautiful detail and degree of complexity.

Aromatic, linseed and rock pool aromas. Bone dry with a saline edge. Mouthwatering.

Weightier than most finos, this still has ample cut, with taut chalk, blanched almond, white peach, chamomile and salted bitter notes all stretching out through the focused, stony finish. Drink now.

Lots of sourdough bread aromas, lovely lifted refreshing acidity. Pure and classic example.

Silky, with a grapefruit tang and orange peel aromas. Refreshing, with an added richness from flor, this is fino at its most alluring. The model of a Puerto de Santa Maria fino; just as intense but more delicate than Jerez.

Made in a similar style, the non-vintage Fino Puerto Fino Solera Reserva is sensational. It offers hints of almond paste intermixed with beer nuts, salty sea breeze smells, and dried apricot and tropical fruit notes.
