Nose strongly caramel, perhaps obscuring some of the finer notes, but the palate has power and persistence.

Aromas of pears poached in brown sugar, chocolate and concentrated walnut. Expressive palate with apple tart, cedar spice with a brisk freshness from tangy acidity.

Dark amber in color, with maple, walnut and other sweet-meets-nutty aromas. It's a bit tangy, but being as zesty as it is propels maple, white chocolate and apricot flavors. This one has depth and a very long finish, which makes it a regal but still approachable palo cortado. Overall it's similar to an amontillado, but with more pulsing, piercing acidity.
